Strategies to Support Social Skills in Middle and High School Students

Tuesday, March 12, 2024

6:00-8:00 p.m.

Via Zoom

Presenter: Bria Hoey, Professional Development Specialist

Parents are fundamental contributors to the development of their child's social/emotional growth. There are many challenges that parents face when supporting their adolescent child with social skill development. This parent workshop will provide parents with practical strategies for teaching their child new skills as well as ways to generalize those skills to new settings. The targeted audience of this session is for parents of secondary age children (middle and high school) with concerns about their child's social skills.

Please register for this session by Friday, March 8, 2024
